

THE ELISHA PROJECT

The mission of the Elisha Project is to create a “Culture of Call” for our students, and provide an environment to uncover prospective ministerial leadership for our churches and other ministry settings in the Dakotas Annual Conference.

The Elisha Project is an internship program that allows opportunity for students to explore, discern their call and discuss with mentors and peers where God is calling them.

Students who have completed at least 1 year of college, and completed the application process will be assigned to a church and mentor.

Internships will be 10 weeks in length; students will begin their internship during Annual Conference June 7-June 10, 2017 in Bismarck, ND. During Annual Conference students will attend and represent their host church as a Young Adult Lay Member

Students will attend a kick-off retreat at Annual Conference and a post retreat August 15th, 2017 at Dakota Wesleyan University, led by Rev Eric VanMeter, details of the pre and post retreat will be available once the intern(s) have been selected.

Students who have been selected for an internship will receive a stipend of $4000 for 40 hours per week from the Dakota Annual Conference and the Board of Ordained Ministry. Other compensation such as travel, housing (interns will need access to internet, cell service or other items to help the intern feel at home), possible moving allowance, and meals are the responsibility of the host church.

Process:

- Applications submitted to the Office of Leadership Development of the Dakotas Annual Conference.

A SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS UNDER THE FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT CONSUMER RIGHTS NOTICE

Para información en Español, visit <https://www.ftc.gov/credit> o escriba a la FTC Consumer Response Center, Room 130-600 Pennsylvania Ave NW, Washington DC 20580.

A SUMMARY OF YOUR RIGHTS UNDER the FAIR CREDIT REPORTING ACT

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130- A, Federal Trade Commission, and 600 Pennsylvania Ave NW, Washington, D.C. 20580.

You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.

You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your "file disclosure"). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:

a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;

you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;

your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;

you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, by September, 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.

You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.

Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.

Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit.

You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists on which these offers are based. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-800-392-7816.

You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:
